THE SILENT CITY AT GREENWOOD.

HY J. D. SHEEWOOD. Phere's a city vast yet voiceless, growing ever street on street; Whither friends with friends e'er meeting * sever meeting never greet, And where rivals fierce and yengeful calm and silent mutely meet; Never greeting over mest.

There are traders without traffic, merchants without books or gains; Tender brides in new-made chambers, where the trickling water stains;

Where the guests forget to come, and strange listening silence reigns; Listening silence ever reigns

Ships sail past this silent city, but their owners quiet lie, And no signals fly from top-tree 'gainst the glowing, crimson sky, Telling the neglectful owner that his well built Argosy

For the Fleece is sailing by. Here the belle forgets the fashions, mindles of her snow white dress;

All unbeeded now her toilet, free ungather ed lock and tress; None here flatter face or figure, none cor fondly to caress;

Tresses flow and none caresa.

Hushed are all these many mansions, bar red and bolted door and gate; Narrow all the walls and earthy, and reof trees steep and straight. Room for all—the high and lowly. and poor here equal mate: Equal dwell and equal mate

Flowers are blooming near these mansion kissed by loving dews at night, Breathing softly round their porches, flo ing through the cooling light; Pealing from their bells sweet music; peal ing odors pure and white:

Pealing only to the night. Here each keeps his well ceiled dwelling fearing naught of quarter day. Here no landlord dune the tenant, and tenant moves away: Dwelling over unevicted, dwelling on from May to May;

Paying never quarter day.

Beckons ever this mute city to its comrade living gay; To its comrade laughing loudly, sitting on the pulsing bay;

Drawing from its masqueraders pale, white spectres day by day; Spectros now, men yesterday,

Thus two cities grow forever, parted by narrow tide, This the shadow, that the substance, gro ing by each others eider

Gliding one into the other, and for evermore shall glide: Growing ever side by side.
